

With charlies limited budget, he is forced to work at a fast food restaurant. He needs to find a way to manage his time and do homework at his job.

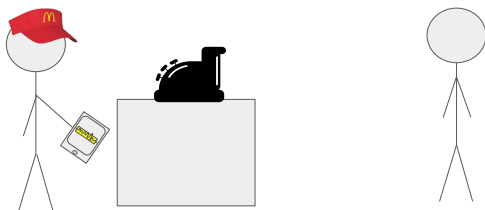

A friend recommended that Charlie try audiobooks. He thinks it will be a good idea because he can work at the same time. His next shift, he tries listening to it.

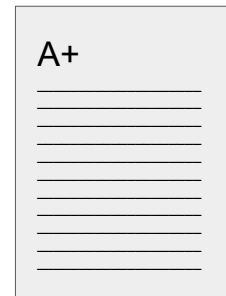

Charlie failed his test! His teacher recommends him a new app that helps you listen to an audiobook in a whole new way.

This new app lets you highlight important phrases, so you can go back and listen to them again. Charlie thinks this would help, as he has a hard time keeping track of specific sections of the audiobook.

Charlie downloaded the app and used it to prepare for his next assessment. Its ease of use works really well, since he doesn't get interrupted from his work.

Charlies grades started to improve, all because of the new app he downloaded! Now he can work and listen to audiobooks at the same time.
